Exultate Singers was founded in 2002 and has gone on to give nearly 200 concerts, broadcasts and other appearances in the UK, Spain, Germany, Poland, Italy, the Czech Republic, Croatia, Bosnia and Montenegro.

The choir has performed on BBC One's Songs of Praise and The One Show, on Classic FM and on BBC Radio in broadcasts on Radios 2, 3 and 4 and the World Service.

Exultate Singers has recorded five CDs, four on its own label and one, All Shall Be Well, for Naxos, which features the title track by Roxanna Panufnik. The choir also appears on Signum's CD Love Abide, performing Roxanna Panufnik's Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis.

Exultate Singers has collaborated in live concerts with many ensembles including I Fagiolini, His Majestys Sagbutts & Cornetts, City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra, the Dubrovnik Symphony Orchestra, the Jupiter Orchestra, Big Buzzard Boogie Band, the Lochrian Ensemble and Bristol Ensemble, and with solo instrumentalists including the guitarist Craig Ogden, the cellist Richard May, the saxophonist Amy Dickson, and the viola player Philip Dukes.

The choir has commissioned music from Sir James MacMillan, Toby Young, Roxanna Panufnik, Philip Moore, Ian Carpenter, Jaakko Mäntyjärvi, David Bednall, Amy Summers, Roderick Williams and Naji Hakim.

On Sunday 1st October, the choir will give the world premiere of a new work by Roxanna Panufnik at St George's Bristol in a concert of music inspired by the seasons. Tickets on sale soon at St George's box office and Exultate Singers' website - www.exultatesingers.org.

David Ogden is a professional conductor and composer. He conducts Exultate Singers, City of Bristol Choir, Bristol Youth Choirs, the professional vocal ensemble Celestia, and workplace choirs at Arval and Airbus. He is Director of Music at Holy Trinity Church, Westbury-on-Trym.

For over 30 years he has worked with professional and amateur groups in many fields of music making, including church music, concerts, musical theatre and opera, community projects, primary and secondary level educational workshops.

David has conducted choirs on BBC Radios 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and the World Service, and worked as conductor, arranger and music adviser on BBC TV's Songs of Praise. He is Religious Music Advisor for the BBC's hit series Call The Midwife, and worked with the Royal Mail Choir in the BBC Two series The Choir: Sing While You Work.

He has composed over 100 anthems and settings of liturgical music which are published by the RSCM and White Light Publishing and are performed regularly in schools and churches worldwide. In 2015 David was awarded an Honorary Fellowship of the Royal School of Church Music in recognition of his service and contribution to choral music and the RSCM over many years.
